. . Aims. . .

1.—To bring about an Association of Societies interested in Trade Questions, as Employers, Employed, or as Merchants.

2.—To promote and maintain between Employers and Employees a feeling of Common Interest.

3.—To keep before the minds of the Employers and Employed that the practical recognition of their common interest will strengthen and promote British Trade and Commerce.

4.—To enquire into and report on matters affecting British Trade and Commerce, with a view to enabling our Manufacturers to hold their own in the markets of the world.

5.—To provide an Association where Employers and Employees can meet on all occasions on the same plane.

6.—To create permanent machinery which will be available in case of any threatened dispute between Employers and their Employees, with a view to preventing a strike or lock-out.

7.—To do all other things ancillary to the above aims.

This Association hopes to be able to act in perfect harmony with the Federations or Unions which may be in existence for the promotion of the interests of Employers or Employees; or with any Boards of Conciliation; or with any other Associations or Chambers which have for their object the promotion of Trade and Commerce.

Method.

1.—Instruction by dissemination of suitable literature adapted to the education of the men for whom it is intended.

2.—The bringing of points of interest home to Members of Parliament.

3.—The collection of matter from foreign Consuls, and the circulation of it in the proper quarters.

4.—The sending of deputations, joint or otherwise, of employers and employees to the various markets of the world, with a view to discovering in what way our trade with particular markets can be improved.

5.—The organization of meetings of employers or employed in different trade centres, to be addressed by speakers from the Association; and the promotion of general discussion of subjects of commercial interest.

6.—To obtain the co-operation of Chambers of Commerce and Mercantile Associations throughout the country.

7.—The re-printing and distribution of articles dealing with the subject.

Swansea Trades Congress, 1901.

ON Thursday evening in the Congress Week, a meeting in support of the National Industrial Association was held in the Temperance Hall and was attended by the majority of the delegates. Mr. James Wignall presided, and the objects of the Association were explained by Mr. John Lockie, M.P., of Newcastle-on-Tyne. Mr. Rd. Bell, M.P., then moved :—

“That this gathering of members of the Trades Union Congress believes that common ground of interest and of agreement betwixt producers is possible ; that there should be a general agreement with conciliation and arbitration as a principle and as a means of preventing and settling industrial disputes ; that it approves of the underlying principle governing the proposed National Industrial Association ; and recommends that societies affiliated with the Trades Union Congress give careful consideration to the scheme proposed by that Association.”

This was seconded by Ald. C. Hobson, J.P., Sheffield, supported by Messrs. W. C. Jenkins (Sec. of the Congress), Ben Tillet, and W. J. Davis, and carried enthusiastically.

Members of both Houses of Parliament and other Gentlemen in Sympathy with the Movement.

Subject to confirmation after a Meeting has been held to thoroughly discuss the matter.
